BEAUX YEUX.

Once Cupid was weeping in pain and dismay
And railing at cheating and theft,
For he'd lost both his bow and his arrows at play
And all of a quiver was left.

"What arms have I now," cried the child in despair,
"To kindle the heart into flame?
My power is vanquished! Oh, small I fare in lands that are loveless and tame."

At the thought of this bitterest cup he must sup—
His tears into rivulets ran.
But they suddenly stopped, and a laugh bubbled up.

To his lips, for he thought of a plan:
"How foolish, how foolish, this sorrow to show.
To fill all the air with my sighs!
For what is the need of my arrow and bow
When I can use Nellie's gray eyes?"

—Rowan Stevens in Kate Field's Washington.

Staggered by Finger Bowls.

A very amusing scene occurred once while I was serving a lady and gentleman of the unmistakable upstart type.
They were grossly ignorant of the most elementary rules of table etiquette, shoveling the food into their mouths with their knives, which were constantly loaded half way up to the handles. They managed to struggle through their dinner, sometimes casting aside knives and forks and attacking game and poultry by cutting them in halves and eating from their hands, holding the leg. Sometimes, too, they became ridiculously polite by carving bread with knife and fork, but the climax came when I set two bowls of rosewater before them as finger glasses.

They looked at each other, and then cautiously around the room, trying to find some solution of the mysterious dish before them, not having the sense to ignore it altogether. Whispered consultations took place, which presently grew into a suppressed quarrel, the lady reproaching her lord for his ignorance. Suddenly she was seen to shake the water around and around,
and finally, with a look of contempt and superior wisdom, she raised the bowl to her lips and drank all the contents. Needless to say that the hearty laughter of the other diners made them feel the mistake, and they beat a hasty retreat.—London Tit-Bits.

Mud Shoes For Horses.

We doubt if very many persons ever saw mud shoes for horses. They are used on horses in plowing the low and wet lands of the valley north of Sumner nearly every spring. The mud shoe consists of a heavy board about 8 inches wide and from 8 to 10 inches long, rounding in the front. On this board a red-hot shoe of the size worn on the horse's foot for which it is intended is placed until it burns into it to a depth almost sufficient to bury itself. It is necessary that the shoe have a long toe and long corks. A piece of circular band iron to fit over the top part of the hoof is then attached to the board and over the hoof to hold the mud shoe solidly to the foot.

One end of the band is fastened to the board with a screw, which when tightened holds the board as squarely to the bottom of the hoof as if it had grown there. The horses become accustomed to wearing them and after a day or two experience no difficulty in working in them. By this means farmers are enabled to plow land in the spring where without the use of mud shoes horses would mire down.—Sumner (Wash.) Herald.

Served Him Right.

A good story is told about a gentleman who lives in Brooklyn and crosses at Fulton ferry nearly every day. He is much persecuted by the horse who always accosts you on a ferryboat in mid-stream with the stereotyped question, "Ah! are you going across?"
The other day one of these demons hooked on to the Brooklyn man as usual and said: "Hello, old man! Going to York?"
"No, sir," he replied promptly. "I am going to hit you on the nose."
And he did amid the cheers of the crowd.—Texas Siftings.

La Duse's Portrait.

A photograph of Eleanora Duse now
on exhibition attracts constant attention.
The picture is far removed both in expression and costume from the ordinary actress. The hair, guileless of curl or bang, looks decidedly "tousled," a straight,
disheveled lock straying across the forehead.
The face is neither young nor beautiful and is ineffably sad. The dark, melancholy eyes look wearily away from the beholder. Mme.
Duse wears a high black gown without ornament.—Philadelphia Press.

An Expression For Slowness.

A Washington youngster has succeeded in adding to the already numerous phrases that are used to emphasize an impression of slowness. He was waiting for his sister to finish something on which she was engaged. After a time his patience was exhausted, and he exclaimed:
"Won't you please hurry up? You are slower than a snail with the rheumatism."
—Washington Star.

Confirmed bachelors will do well to read Dr. Benjamin Rush's definition of life without a wife, written not long before his death. "Celibacy," he said, "is a pleasant breakfast, a tolerable dinner,
but a very bad supper."

There is a fire in a tenement. The excited crowd throng the crockery and the glassware out of the window from the fourth story; the mattresses are brought down to the ground floor in their arms.

The most curious book in the world was neither written nor printed. The letters in its pages were cut from blue tissue paper, which was afterward pasted on cardboard.

Correspondence holds a double power,
inasmuch as the pen that can comfort and cheer and elevate may become the weapon that wounds and destroys.

Don't You Know

that you can secure the most immediate relief from indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons' Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the liver that causes indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons' Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

Rev. M. B. Watson, Baltimore, Md., writes me: "I have had occasion to use Simmons' Liver Regulator, and I can say that it is the greatest remedy I have ever used for indigestion and constipation."

TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1893.

THE D., S. L. AND S. F. R. R.

The Denver, Salt Lake and San Francisco Railway Company, at a meeting held in Denver last Saturday, completed its organization by electing Governor John Evans president; W. N. Byers, vice president; W. G. Evans, secretary, and John J. Riethman treasurer.

President Evans delivered an address outlining the policy of the company. He said we shall maintain the absolute independence of our road and a perfect impartiality between the connecting lines that become our patrons as to traffic and trackage. Our road will belong to no system east or west, and its control cannot be bought. We shall keep the final location of our line from ultimate decision until the most profitable in every way to the company has been determined upon. We have $10,000,000 of capital stock, which at par will do a great deal toward building the road and when necessary it can be legally increased.

President Evans said that his advice prevails it will be the policy of the company to put into its stock all of the profits acquired and to incur as light a bonded indebtedness as practicable in building and equipping one of the very best and most substantial railroads in the country. He would not build it more rapidly than it can be done without any sacrifice of the intrinsic value of the enterprise by parting with either stock or bonds below par.

The profits of investments secured by the location and operation of the road through the rich country across which it will be built will be greater than has ever been realized from a railroad enterprise before.

Governor Evans thought that while it may be expedient to get control of franchises in Utah, Nevada and California, the authority and control of the road must remain with the company as organized. By beginning operations at San Francisco and at Salt Lake as well as at Denver, the local business paying parts of the through line can be built with stock without the sale of a bond. The road will be built, and that, too, at great profit to the stockholders and benefit to the country.

The Denver capitalists who are promoting the enterprise mean business. They claim that a road built on business principles will not cost one-third as much as the subsidized roads and consequently can carry freight and passengers at one-third the cost, with greater profit to the stockholders. Of course the great depression in mining operations caused by the low price of silver may retard operations, but the Denver papers say the road will be built from that city to the coast at an early day.

CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

Some of the campaign literature of the old parties before election just at this time ought to furnish instructive reading to the American people. The introduction to the Omaha platform, however, in the light of to-day reads like a prophecy. The Republican and Democratic parties vied with each other in denouncing the followers of the new party as calamity howlers. To-day the country is experiencing some of the very calamity foreseen by the new party. Strange to say however, there is not an old party paper during the last six weeks that has called the new party by any other name than its rightful one. There is a significance to the old epithet just now that smacks of anything but approbation.

A rereading of the tariff editorials and arguments of the pre-campaign days now, show the gigantic humbug of the issues trumped up by the old parties in this sham battle. Before election the Democracy attributed to Republican protection all the woes endured by the American masses, and promised to lead the children of hard times out of Egypt into Israel if they would only follow the pillar of light of Democratic tariff tinkering.

The Republican party on the contrary labored to show that never before was the country so prosperous, and that it was all due to the glories of a protective tariff. As for anything being the matter with the financial policy of the Republican party, surprisingly acquiesced in by the Democrats, it was the essence of perfection and the Populists were denounced as calamity howlers and cranks because they declared the financial question to be the only issue before the country.

Since the election of the party of Mr. Cleveland, tariff revision has been relegated to innocuous disuse, and the financial question of the Populists takes its place as the most momentous issue before the American people.

The Salt Lake Tribune has the following: "Would it not be a good thing if the men of the west could induce Secretary Carlisle to come this way before congress meets, to counsel with the men of Denver, Salt Lake, Virginia City, Portland, Butte, Boise, the Sound cities, and finally San Francisco? The boy in Missouri who went down to St. Louis, and then went home and refused to talk for two or three days, but finally when greatly pressed to give his impressions, declared that all he had to say was that if the world was as big the other way it was shoel of a world. Maybe if Mr. Carlisle would come out this way he would find there was a whole lot of country west of the Missouri river. He might, too, obtain some new ideas as to the importance of this country in its effects upon the eastern country."

FEARFUL FIRE IN CHICAGO.

In Which Twenty-four Firemen Lose Their Lives.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

CHICAGO, July 10.—The fear that has existed for months in the minds of the citizens of Chicago found realization to-day in a frightful holocaust at the world's fair, that claimed nearly two-score of victims and for a time threatened to destroy the entire white city. The disaster was all the more dreadful because of its sudden transformation from an innocent flame to a death-dealing catastrophe. The structure that burned was a cold storage warehouse, one of the smallest buildings at the fair, but not belonging to the exposition.

The fire was not generally observed until about 1:15 p. m. and within half an hour a great loss of life occurred. At the first signal the firemen rushed up the smokestack and when at the summit began preparations to fight the flames which first appeared at this point. Before the hose could be coupled a cry of horror from the crowd below caused the firemen to look down, for the whole space below was encircled with flames. The men stood stolidly for a moment in the full realization of their danger, then one grasped the rope which had been lowered for the purpose of raising the hose, and half sliding, half falling reached the roof 90 feet below in a bruised and burned condition but still alive.

The crowd below became wild with excitement and weeping women and frenzied men rushed around wringing their hands and moaning in anguish over their inability to render aid. Suddenly every eye was turned upward by the preparations of a fireman to jump. He gave a quick, spasmodic leap and turned over and over half a dozen times before he struck the roof ninety feet below. When the body struck the roof there was a mighty crash and it bounded far up again into the air. From this time on bodies rained from the steeple, as after the first wild leap one man after another jumped in quick succession as the flames closed in below and the heat became more intense.

It is estimated that twenty-five firemen lost their lives in the flames. Scarcely twenty-five minutes had elapsed since the fire was discovered, but so rapidly had been its progress that the entire tower was burned away and fell with an awful crash, carrying with it the unfortunates who were left in the balcony, and several firemen who were playing on the flames with hose from the roof. It is doubtful if any of the bodies will ever be recovered, so furious and terrific was the heat. A complete and accurate list of the dead is difficult to obtain and not even the officers of the department will know who is lost until after the roll call to-night.

NEVADA SHOULD TAKE ACTION.

Chairman Nixon of the Silver Party Issues a Call.

WINNEBAGO, July 10.—The chairman of the State central committee of the Silver party of Nevada issues the following: The goldbugs, with Grover Cleveland at their head, are making a most determined effort to have the Sherman law repealed at an extra session of congress and a gold standard permanently fixed upon this country. Intimidation and bribery and executed threats are their weapons. The friends of silver in nearly all of our sister States are energetically organizing for the conflict. Shall Nevada lag behind? She was foremost of all States in her loyalty to the silver cause in the late presidential campaign. At it time she was heard from in the present crisis. Let every silver club in the State and every election precinct meet in convention in their respective localities and pass resolutions in earnest protest against the repeal of the Sherman law unless a free coinage bill is substituted and forward the same to our senators and representative in congress. It has been suggested that a State convention be called, but on account of the great expense such a convention would entail upon the delegates and because it is better to have the expression of the people in each neighborhood in mass meeting, we most earnestly urge the adoption of the latter plan, and to secure unanimity of action we advise such meetings be held Saturday the 15th inst. It is of highest importance that Nevada shall be represented at the meeting of the American bi-metallic league to be convened at Chicago the first day of August and we suggest that the silver leagues of each county, so far as possible, name a delegate to that meeting.

Pension Legislation.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The pension bureau notified a great many pensioners throughout the entire country who are drawing pensions under the act of June 27, 1890, known as the dependent pension act, that the payment of their pensions will be suspended for sixty days, during which time they are required to show cause why they should continue to draw pensions. This action is pursuant to a recent ruling of Secretary Smith to the effect that a pensioner under the act of June 27, 1890, drawing pension for total disability must be shown to be physically incapable of manual labor. It is estimated at the pension office that, although the work is recently begun, something over 1,000 suspensions were already made.

Weather Forecast.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—The forecast for Nevada is fair weather and warmer.

The Truckee Republican says travel to Tahoe, Donner and Independence is brisk. The usual number of tourists are coming to the mountains in spite of the world's fair.

The British bimetallicists have prepared a ringing address to the people of Great Britain who are feeling the stringency caused by the demonetization of silver as much as the people of the United States. Sir Moreton Trevelyan in an open letter says: "I shall be surprised if the majority of the American nation does not demand the demonetization of gold and the acceptance of a silver currency with free mints."

The Palace Hotel, which is well and favorably known to every old Nevadan, is being conducted as usual by that veteran landlord, Al White, who spares neither pains nor purse to provide for the convenience of guests.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

THE N-C-O. RAILWAY.

The Outlet for a Large Area of Territory—An Extensive Irrigation System.

While at Amdees last Saturday a JOURNAL reporter derived much information relative to the business of the N-C-O. railway at that point from S. M. Sample, the obliging agent of D. W. Earl & Co., forwarding merchants. The reporter was also furnished facts of interest relating to the irrigation system now being perfected by the Eagle Lake Land and Irrigation company and the area of irrigable and cultivable land in the southern part of Honey Lake valley. Time and space prevented the publication of even a cursory mention of these important subjects in the article relating to the excursion to Amdees in Sunday's JOURNAL.

A CONCENTRATING AND DISTRIBUTING POINT.

Amdees, which is the terminus of the N-C-O., is eighty miles by rail north of Reno. It is the entrepot for Lassen and Modoc counties, Cal., and Southern Oregon. Lakeview and Paisley, the latter over 200 miles north from Amdees, bring the products of the farm and the range to the N-C-O. for export and get their supplies over that road. Wool, wheat, beef, bacon, hides, etc., are shipped south, and groceries, clothing and farming implements are taken north. In one week this spring 100,000 pounds of wool was received from and 200,000 pounds of merchandise was shipped to northern points. A shipment of 5,000 pounds of bacon from Alturas was received at the station consigned to a California firm. A fourteen-horse team with back-action wagons arrived at the station Saturday from Bagleyville loaded with wool, and the team will load back with merchandise. Hides were also piled up at the freight house awaiting transportation to San Francisco, as there is no tannery east of the Sierra in California, nor is there one in Nevada. Ordinarily there are large quantities of wheat from the country north shipped by rail from Amdees, but the low price of grain this year does not warrant its shipment.

There is an extensive farming and stock raising country north of Amdees yet undeveloped and when the N-C-O. is extended to the Columbia, as it certainly will be it will open up hundreds of miles for settlement and make Reno a competitive point.

A COMPREHENSIVE IRRIGATION SYSTEM.

The Eagle Lake Land & Irrigation Company have inaugurated a comprehensive system of irrigation which in conjunction with the Susan river system will in a few years transform the sagebrush plains into waving grain and alfalfa fields. From Geo. A. Dodge, one of the enterprising citizens of the valley, the JOURNAL reporter learned that there are about 250,000 acres of land in what is known as Honey Lake valley. This includes the lower or northern part of Long valley and about 30,000 acres in Nevada, which can be irrigated and cultivated. The Eagle Lake L. & I. company have a canal forty-six miles long that carries 700 inches of water, which experience has proved to be sufficient to irrigate 7,000 acres. The company intends to increase the size of the canal as occasion may require, as the water supply is unlimited.

The Susan river system is capable of irrigating 75,000 acres. There are four reservoirs in this system, each of sufficient capacity to furnish water for 15,000 or 20,000 acres. There are three miles of 22-inch pipe laid in this system to carry water and about 7,000 acres of land are irrigated at present.

The valley produces all kinds of vegetables and it is noted for the excellence of its fruit. Honey Lake apples being the best on the coast. The Eagle Lake canal extends five or six miles south of Amdees, where there are thousands of acres of sagebrush land which competent judges say requires only water and cultivation to make it as productive as any on the coast. Horace Clark has built a fine dwelling house on this plain, about three miles from Amdees, and has 180 acres of land under cultivation. The reporter regrets that he did not have opportunity to visit this land and see what changes have been made in its appearance by water and cultivation. He was informed, however, that fruit trees set out in the place were doing well, but that the grain and grass crops were not as promising as might be expected.

Artesian water is found on the plain at a depth of a few hundred feet and there are now four flowing wells. The soil, however, is impregnated with alkali and the land does not seem to be fertile in the immediate vicinity of the town as it is farther south. Now that there is water on the ground another year ought to determine whether this alkaline soil will produce good crops with irrigation. If it does Amdees is destined to be an extensive and prosperous farming community in a very few years, second only to the Truckee Meadows and Lovelock on the east side of the Sierra Nevada.

The Pioche Record says the destruction of the Bullionville reduction works by fire, which occurred a week ago, is a calamity and W. S. Godbe, one of the most enterprising men in the country, is about financially ruined by the catastrophe. The works cost a quarter of a million dollars and were insured for $30,000.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AUSTRALIA.

What a Former Resident of Reno Says of it.

John Howell, formerly of this State, and at one time manager of the Reno Reduction Works, but now superintendent of the Broken Hill Proprietary Co.'s mines, which are the richest silver-lead mines in the world and located in New South Wales, writes to J. R. Brown, of Lovelock, that he is about to engaged in a new industry, of which he says:

"Correctly speaking, the greater part of this country is a desert—great plains hundreds of miles in extent, which have nothing but stunted 'mulga' timber, (like mountain mahogany) and a very nutritious shrub called salt brush. It resembles our white sage somewhat in its first properties, but is otherwise dissimilar, as it has a salty taste. It is, however, great sheep and cattle feed.

But the great want in Australia is water. In the interior the rains are light, and there are only two rivers of any importance on the whole continent—the Murray and Darling. The Darling is about 70 miles from here. Much of the plains land is very fertile, and would grow almost anything if water could be got on it. When we have a good rain, grass and flowers spring up with remarkable rapidity, and everything that grows seems to be good feed.

The sheep men own the greater part of the desert country for sheep runs, and many of their holdings amount to sixty or seventy miles square, for which they pay the government a half-penny or a penny an acre per year rent. They cannot buy land. These 'squatters,' as they are called, have millions of sheep. It is estimated that there are over 60,000,000 sheep in the interior of this country, and of course the increase is far more than can be consumed in meat, so the sheep men have great trouble in disposing of their old ewes, and of late they have been establishing what they call 'boiling down' establishments, where common sheep are killed for their skins and tallow. The sheep, when dressed, are put into a great boiler—500 to 1,000 at a time—and are cooked with steam, which takes all the tallow out of them. It is an establishment of this kind that, with four others, I am going into. We have rented 30,000 acres of land on the banks of the Darling river, and are erecting the plant now. But, in addition to the boiling business, we are going to fatten hogs on the cooked meat, and I am going to put out a lot of alfalfa at once. The land is good and pretty level, and there is plenty of water in the river, but it will have to be pumped out for irrigating purposes. We have bought 17,000 head of sheep already, paying on an average 68 cents per head, and we have also about 1,000 head of hogs. This should be quite pork and mutton enough to do a small family for awhile. This figures out pretty well on paper, but it may not prove so well. However, we will give it a trial. The climate is good, scarcely any frost, and alfalfa will grow all the year round."—Lovelock News Era.

FATALLY INJURED.

A Man Mangled by the Cars Near the Water Tank.

Sunday night a man named Dan Connell was run over by the west-bound passenger train between the water tank and the depot and frightfully mangled. His left foot was cut off above the ankle and the right leg above the knee. The railroad men tried to stop the flow of blood by binding the lacerated limbs. Dr. Percy Phillips, who was called to attend him, had him removed to the county hospital where his wounds were dressed and everything possible done to alleviate his suffering, until death came to his relief. He said he had worked for D. C. Wheeler some time ago and for the last year had been working in the Anaconda mine, Montana, from which place he arrived Sunday evening. His brother Patrick is in the employ of Dan McCarthy, the noted California race horse man.

Eureka Notes.

The following are gleaned from the Sentinel:

Quite a number of the miners who were employed in the Diamond mine have gone in quest of pastures new in California and the east.

It is probable that work will be resumed at the Diamond mine if the silver quotations rise to anything above 80 cents. The company is having a new track laid in the tunnel.

D. H. Hall, having again been appointed register of the land office of this district, has removed his official headquarters to the Sadler building on Main street. The office is very comfortably furnished.

The great anniversary of our national independence was celebrated in Eureka for the first time since 1886 on last Tuesday, and considering the dull times and late great blow at silver, which fell like a wet blanket on this community, its observance was marked with all the honest enthusiasm that honest patriotism could suggest. Peter Breen, Esq., delivered the oration.

Telling the Truth.

It's common saying that newspapers lie, but when an editor writes a thing and puts his name to it you may be sure he is telling the truth. Read this: "We have never before said one word in favor of any patent medicine advertisement in our columns, but having given Simmons Liver Regulator a fair trial, we do not hesitate to say, that for Dyspepsia and general debility it cannot be excelled."—Fred M. Childs, editor News, Kenton, Ohio.

A man named James Doran started to walk across the Mohave desert on the morning of July 4th without food or water. He was found in almost a dying condition on the desert. His left thumb bore marks of his teeth. He said he had bitten it so that he could suck his blood to quench his thirst. He had been working at a gold mine and in consequence of food running short his employer, Theodor Wibbitt, wanted to charge him a dollar a day for board while he was idle. Doran thought he would walk to Mohave rather than pay a dollar a day for coffee straight.

The Pioche Record says Moroni Canfield, a cattleman, committed suicide near Milford by shooting himself with a Colt's revolver. He had been filling a contract for several thousand head of cattle, and in driving across the desert from Desert Springs to Milford, a distance of 70 miles, the cattle became unmanageable and stampeded. This misfortune and no sleep for several nights unsettled Canfield's reason, and self-imposed death was the result. He leaves a father and mother and a wife and eight children.

Austin has been very quiet and dull since the fall of silver last week. The Reveille says the closing down of the mines and mill is severely felt by all. There are five or six men at work for the company on the water tunnel and that is all the work being done.

When Baby was sick, she gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she clung to Castoria.
When she became a Woman, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ANNUAL ASSESSMENT WORK.

The Laws Regarding It Should be Suggested for the Present.

The following from the Mining and Scientific Press will meet the hearty approval of mine owners:

Notwithstanding the fact that thousands of mines all over the West must remain idle for some time to come, owing to the decrease in the value of silver and lead, the law requires that annual expenditure shall be made on all of them, whether worked or not, unless government patent has been granted. A correspondent, in a letter in another column, makes the suggestion that an effort be made to have this provision of the mining laws suspended for the present, in view of the situation. Men of prominence in the mining industry would be benefited themselves, and the smaller mine-owners would be grateful for their help. It is not only the mere actual outlay of the mine itself, but the cost of the assessment work is greatly added to in many cases by the distance from the railroad. Under present conditions there is no earthly use doing anything on these mining claims, yet the work has to be done else the claim and all expenditure on it up to date is lost. It must be confessed it is very difficult to make congress pay much attention to the mining laws, or force upon it a knowledge of any evils which may exist in them; yet, if united effort be made under the present circumstances, there may be some hope of accomplishing this.

A CANAL IN CRIMEA.

THE AGE AND HISTORY OF A WORLD'S WONDER UNKNOWN.

A Great Waterway Which a Russian Engineer Thinks Was Built as a Means of Defense in Ancient Times—A Detailed Account of the Wonderful Structure.

The great Russian engineer Melnikoff writes from Odessa to the Smithsonian Institution describing the ruins of an ancient canal discovered in the Crimea, which he regards as one of the wonders of the world. It is certainly 27 centuries old, and among similar ancient objects of historic interest is second only in age to the great pyramids. The hanging gardens of Babylon and the Colossus of Rhodes are shrouded with no deeper mysteries than the existence of this great ditch, whose ruins can be traced for a long distance through the Crimean hills. Whether it was a waterway in the olden times and the pathway of ancient commerce between the Black sea and the sea of Azov or a means of defense for the people living in its vicinity is a question which wise men, supposed to know all about antiquities, cannot explain.

Xenophon, the distinguished Athenian, who conducted the retreat of 10,000 Greeks from the up country march, so called, writes of ditches which were dug by inhabitants of hostile territory through which they passed as an impediment to their march. Water was often turned into these, so that crossing was rendered more difficult. Perhaps the ancient and wonderful canal served the same purpose on a very large scale. While it was of grand proportions, which at that early day surpassed the engineering feats of the Suez canal, the fortifications for its protection are no less interesting. At each end of the western side there was a lofty castle, the ruins of which remain to this day, the cubical contents exceeding 750,000 meters. A part of these stones, as well as those with which the bed of the canal was paved its entire length, were removed some time ago to build a town which adjoins.

During the Crimean war some of the stones remaining were utilized in the construction of hospitals for the wounded soldiers, which structures are still standing. Along the banks of the canal there were once at least six towers, but what purpose they served, unless for defense, is uncertain. There was also a high wall, which extended its entire length. At an equal distance from each end there was a gigantic fortress, built in the form of a square and covering a space of 32,400 square meters. The canal is as straight as an arrow its entire length except at this point, where it forms three sides of a square about the fortress. Here there was a smaller canal on the outer side, which may have provided greater security.

One of the gateways of the fortress is still partially preserved, and through it passes a dilapidated road. The canal was built by Assand I. of Bosphorus in the seventh century B. C. and is 9 kilometers long. Mention is made of this in the writings of Pliny and Strabo, but nothing is said about the great amount of time and money expended in its construction or for what special purpose it was done. It passes by the modern town of Perekop, and is not far from the Greek city of Neapolis, whose name was changed by Assand for the building of the canal to Tapharas, which is the Greek for ditch. Its width on the bottom was about 5 meters and its depth 10 meters. Whether it served formerly as a great and towering fortification or as a certain container of water enough to sail ships of considerable burden.

Undoubtedly before the time of Christ many ships used it as a short cut across the peninsula between the two seas. The bed is now dry, except for a few standing pools, but it is said that the old inhabitants can remember when, for several miles in the central part, there was sufficient water to form a roadway for the lighter craft of the semibarbarous people. This is accounted for by the fact that some time in the fifteenth century the canal was repaired.

The Russian government has a project under consideration of opening up a great waterway across the peninsula between the two seas, and his connection with this scheme is what led the engineer, Melnikoff, to inquire into the history of the canal and attempt to explore its wonders. Melnikoff writes in French and conveys a vivid description of the ancient ruins. He has just written a pamphlet, and this contains in Russian a full account of all that is known up to date that has been said about the canal in the centuries since its construction. It also contains diagrams and illustrations of the canal as it now appears.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Passing of the Snake.

Readers of newspapers must have noticed that during the last few years the breed of newspaper snakes has greatly deteriorated in intelligence and general accomplishments. There was when Georgia and Alabama snakes wriggled along on the tips of their tails and picked cotton bolls, when they entered houses in the nighttime and drained babies' milk bottles, when they grew to enormous lengths and performed under proper training many acts of domestic service. All this is changed now. The reptilian kindom has experienced a setback in its progressive march toward intellectuality. As a consequence, newspaper writers have been obliged to fall back upon such commonplace animals as the cat and dog.—Omaha World-Herald.

Maldens Sold by Auction.

A singular custom obtains to this day in some of the towns in the Lower States—namely, that of "selling" maidens at public auctions. For nearly four centuries, on Easter Monday—auction day—the town clerk or clerk of St. Goar has called all the young people together, and to the highest bidder sold the privilege of dancing with the chosen girl, and her only, during the entire year. The fees are put into the public poorbox.—London Tit-Bits.

Moses and His Horns.

Did Moses have horns? Certainly not, but if you have ever had the pleasure of examining a copy of Michael Angelo's great picture of "The Lawgiver" you have wondered why the great painter surmounted the patriarchal face, gray beard and becoming priestly gown, with a pair of horns much resembling those of a 2-year-old animal of the bovine tribe. The reason is this: Jerome's Bible, the Latin Vulgate, tells that when Moses came down from the mountain top his face was "radiant" (rayed) with the great light shining from his pure soul. In the Greek Septuagint the translation said it was "cornuta," meaning "radiant." Jerome used this latter version in making his Latin Vulgate and translated "cornuta" as "cornuta," the last meaning horned. Angelo made his picture accordingly.—Philadelphia Press.

Idea of Heaven.

There used to be a popular form of torture, in the form of "Books of Questions," which once figured on most drawing room tables, and in which visitors were expected to write their definitions of "happiness," "misery," etc. How different, by the way, would be many definitions of both these conditions! The old woman's idea of heaven as a place "where she would sit all day in a clean apron and knit and sing hymns" would not be an entirely satisfying ideal to some minds, while Cowley might have sympathized with the denizen of a town slum, who on her deathbed, being comforted with allusions to the "golden city," promptly retorted, "Oh, no; if ever get to heaven, I hope I shall be let to live in the country."—London Standard.

An Appropriate Emblem.

An Irish laborer, a great favorite with his fellow workmen, was honored at his funeral by their offering of an enormous floral anchor. The widow had never seen the like, but mother "it helped her to its name—she thanked the givers warmly for "Patsy's pick."—Exchange.
